

Luke Rutledge

Lunch · True Food Kitchen, Preston Center · Today, 2:00 PM

WHO HE IS

President, Homecare Homebase (HCHB) — Dallas-based healthcare SaaS. Builds mobile software for Home Health & Hospice agencies. 99M patient visits/year, 190K+ daily users. SVP since 2017, at HCHB since 2013. Background before HCHB: AT&T; (PMO), Lincoln Financial, WestPoint Financial.

His EA is Jessica Garcia (jgarcia@hchb.com) — she coordinated this meeting. HCHB office: 4849 Greenville Ave, Suite 400, Dallas.

HOW THIS CAME TOGETHER

Met at the Cowboys CEO event in April. Your note: "Would like to grab lunch and hear about the direction you're taking HCHB." His team reached out April 30. This is a first proper sit-down — relationship building, no deal on the table yet.

CONVERSATION THREADS

On HCHB's direction

- What's the strategic focus right now — product expansion, market share, AI in the clinical workflow?
- How are they thinking about CMS reimbursement model shifts and what that means for home health SaaS?
- They sit on a massive dataset — 99M visits, clinical + back-office. What's their AI posture? Building, buying, or watching?

On AI broadly

- "I haven't seen a big amazing product that brings everything together yet" is probably true in healthcare SaaS too — where does he see the gap?
- What's their internal team capacity to build vs. maintain AI tools? (The puppies problem.)

On him personally

- 13 years at one company, building multiple business lines. That's rare — what keeps him there?
- What does the next chapter look like for him?

Opener

- You were both in the room for the AI panel at the Cowboys event — "what landed for you from that conversation?"
-

WHAT TO WATCH FOR

- HCHB is private, equity-backed, high-growth. If they're thinking scale, IPO, or acquisition, that changes how they invest in outside services.
 - His background is in client success and PMO — he understands delivery quality. Improving's differentiation resonates with operators, not just buyers.
 - Listen for where their internal team is stretched — that's the Improving opening.
-

ONE ASK

Invite him into the DRC AI Workshop pipeline or next executive event. Your Cowboys note flagged this group for exactly that. He's a natural fit.